Genzyme staff await jobs news

STAFF at a major biotech company face an anxious wait to see if their jobs are secure after its sale was agreed.

French giant Sanofi-Aventis, which launched a hostile bid last summer, has now agreed to buy Genzyme for $74 (£46) a share – or more than $20 billion (£12.5 billion).

Genzyme has a large site at Rookwood Way in Haverhill, employing about 350 people, as well as research premises in Cambridge.

The company opened its Haverhill plant in 1982 and it is the main European producer of Renvela, a revolutionary drug in the treatment of chronic kidney disease. Genzyme employs 10,000 staff in the UK and 1,500 in the rest of Europe, but is dwarfed by the French company, which has a total of 100,000 employees.

Caroline De Bie, Genzyme's associate director of communications Europe, said it was expected to take a few weeks before the deal was finalised and details worked out.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

She said: "What is going to take time is looking at any overlapping functions and the best way to integrate the two businesses. Sanofi is 10 times the size of Genzyme and has its own manufacturing facilities, but our work at Genzyme is very specialised – no-one else is doing what we are.

"For Genzyme it is business as usual. The good news for the patients who rely on the drugs we produce is that the Genzyme name is continuing and they will still be able to get the medicines they rely on.

"The skills and qualifications of the people who work for us will be taken into account, but it is not possible to make a commitment to any site at this stage.

"Large general pharmaceutical companies like Sanofi are looking at successful, smaller companies like ours that complement what they do. We will continue to do what we do best – our prime concern is to make sure that our patients continue to receive their drugs."

Tax rise to help save arts centre

RESIDENTS are facing a massive 20 per cent hike in their council tax which will add 35p a day onto their bills.

The increase was unanimously agreed at a Haverhill Town Council meeting by councillors who want to help finance the future of the under-threat historic arts centre building it manages.

The precept the town council adds onto the council tax bill will rise from £89.72 to almost £108 – based on an average band D property.

Former town councillor Chris Cullum said he thought everyone in Haverhill would be "hopping mad" about the increase and said efficiencies and savings should have been made instead of raising the residents' council tax.

He said: "I cannot believe this, I am absolutely furious.

"The borough council is making no increase and the county council is doing the same, but Haverhill Town Council are making us pay twice. We are paying the town council element and then towards the grant element they are receiving from the borough."

Business pair found guilty of raping girl

TWO partners in a computer company have been convicted of raping a woman when she was a 14-year-old girl.

Computer engineer Jason Cutts, 43, had denied the allegation but was found guilty by a jury at Ipswich Crown Court of repeated rape between March 2001 and November 2005.

Cutts, of Birdwood Road, Cambridge, had introduced the girl to his business partner Phillip Skinner, 60, who then also raped her.

The court heard that Cutts and Skinner had each watched as the other had sex with the girl on a sofa. Following the rapes by Cutts, the girl fell pregnant and underwent a termination, the court was told.

Cutts was convicted of six offences of rape, two of indecent assault, 13 of making indecent images of children, one of possessing an indecent image of a child and one of distributing an indecent image of a child.

Cutts claimed that the girl's allegations were "just a fantasy" and strongly denied any responsibility for her becoming pregnant. He also denied having put indecent images of children on his own computer.

The court heard that Cutts had run a computer business with Skinner from premises in Hollands Road, Haverhill, and with shops in Sudbury and Halstead. Skinner, of Kitchen Hill, Bulmer, near Sudbury, was also found guilty of an offence of raping the same girl between December 2005 and November 2006.

He had already pleaded guilty to possession of indecent images of children following the seizure of his laptop computer, as part of the same investigation.

The prosecution alleged that Skinner had offered Cutts cash payments in return for arranging sex with the girl.

Skinner, who has served a previous sentence for possession of child pornography, admitted that he enjoyed viewing indecent images of young girls, but denied ever having sex with a girl of that age. Cutts and Skinner were remanded in custody for the preparation of reports by the Probation Service.

Both are due to be sentenced on March 10.

School plays host to Kerala dancers

COLOURFUL dancers helped bring their studies of India to life for a group of primary school children.

Members of the Kerala community living in Haverhill were invited along to the town's New Cangle Primary School to demonstrate their dances, wearing traditional costumes.

Hannah Tyzack, the Year 5 teacher who organised the visit, said: "We saw a picture of them in the Weekly News, so I contacted them and asked if they would come along. We just wanted to bring it to life for the children, rather than just looking at photographs, to experience the real thing.

"The whole school came to watch and the children were really excited about it."

Anger over council tax rise

Gordon Mussett, the town clerk, said the decision was made because officials at St Edmundsbury Borough Council had been unable to give any indication of what future grant levels would be – putting the future of the arts centre in jeopardy.

Last year residents were warned that the arts centre could be forced to close or make most of its staff redundant if its grant from the borough council was reduced.

The decision was made to help the council have some autonomy over how it serves the community.

Mr Mussett said: "It secures the future of the arts centre and takes away the uncertainty about funding which we have been faced with every year.

"It puts control in our own hands so that we can make sure the centre is preserved for the people of Haverhill.

"We have set up a small working party to see if we can return some of the money to residents in the form of a £10 cash refund.

"We would like to do it when we hold a charity day at the centre, so that some people might like to give it straight to one of the charities."

The council tax hike has been made before new Government legislation comes into effect which means a costly referendum must be held if a tax rise considered excessive is being made.

Suffolk County Council and Suffolk Police Authority both confirmed this week that they are freezing their parts of the council tax this year.

Resident hits out at housing scheme

DEVELOPERS planning to build 2,500 homes have been criticized by a resident for not giving enough warning of consultation events or details of where the houses would go.

Plans for the new homes to be built over the next 20 years on land in north east Haverhill are included in St Edmundsbury Borough Council's core strategy for expansion of the town, which also includes more than 1,000 more homes in north west Haverhill.

Bidwells have recently announced a series of consultation events so that local residents can give their views on the plans.

But Jason Cohen, 35, of Roman Way, Haverhill, protested to the company after receiving notice of an event at Samuel Ward School too late to attend.

He also criticized the lack of detail provided on the website about the development and the fact that there was no clear map showing exactly where it was planned to put the houses.

He said: "How can the majority of local people be expected to give their views on this proposal when you are deliberately avoiding publishing the details."

He added: "I lived on the Wilsey estate for 31 years before moving to Roman Way two years ago and, after looking at the PDF, I do not understand which fields are going to be used because you have not highlighted this from an aerial point of view."

A reply to Mr Cohen said that leaflets had been distributed and signs put up about the first meeting at Samuel Ward School, held on February 11.

There will be another public exhibition at Kedington Community Centre on Saturday, from 10am to 1pm and a public workshop at on March 5 from 10am to 1pm at Samuel Ward School. To register to attend the public workshop by 28 February 2011, visit northeasthaverhill@bidwells.co.uk.

Visit zoo and help lemur survival

TAKE an exclusive trip into a zoo's rarely seen lemur breeding centre to raise funds for conservation projects.

Linton Zoo is inviting visitors to come face-to-face with the cute animals in a VIP tour, which it hopes will raise money to protect the hunted species.

The European breeding programme for the mon-goose lemur is co-ordinated from Linton Zoo which is also heavily involved in a number of conservation projects in Europe and Madagascar – where the lemur is hunted.

Zoo visitors will not only get up close to the animals but will get a fascinating insight into the creature, its habitat and breeding.

Kim Simmons, zoo director, said: "This is a fantastic opportunity to take part in an inspiring and unforgettable experience, knowing that you are contributing directly to the conservation of these endangered mammals from Madagascar."

"All of the money raised will go directly to wild lemur conservation projects."

Two tours, costing £10 per person, will be taking place daily at 11.30am and 1.30pm until Sunday.

Pre-booking is advised and children under 2 are unable to enter the rare lemur breeding centre.

For more information and to book a tour log on to www.lintonzoo.com

Genzyme staff wait for news on jobs

Ms De Bie, added: "It is way too early so say what the effect will be on individual sites."

"This is something which will be looked at globally and at this stage we cannot make any commitment to any site or guarantee any jobs."

"Our strength is that a lot of our work is very specialised and no-one else is doing what we are doing, so the skills and qualifications of our staff will be taken into account."

Genzyme's Haverhill site has seen capital investments of more than £100 million, and has played a pivotal part in supplying the whole global market with one of its most successful drugs.

However, it received a setback after a series of three explosions in a spray drying unit in December 2009 meant it had to be closed for a year, although a full supply of Renvela was maintained to patients throughout the refurbishment work.

Last year Genzyme's overall boss Henri Temeer announced the need to shed 1,000 jobs worldwide.

Council pins crossing hopes on new funding

SCHOOL crossing patrols are to have their funding cut – despite a storm of protest – but a council is hoping others will step in to keep them going.

Suffolk county councillors agreed their budget for 2011/12, including no increase in council tax but a range of savings to address a 28 per cent reduction in the county's funding from central Government.

Haverhill Town Council has already expressed an interest in running the town's two crossing patrols – each costing around £3,500 a year to staff – when county council funding ends on May 23.

A county council spokesman said that where there was a viable plan for an alternative group, such as a school or a council to take over the crossing, county council funding could be extended to July or beyond to allow the changeover to happen.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

One school crossing in Ipswich has already gained sponsorship from a local business to allow it to continue. Suffolk County Council will save £174,000 by scrapping funding for 62 patrols across the county.

Consultation is continuing to find alternative ways of funding youth services in Suffolk, but councillors agreed to stop funding youth clubs – including one in Haverhill – from May 28.

A county spokesman said a review was taking place of all youth services with the intention to provide more targeted services, rather than open access clubs which were often poorly attended. Haverhill Town Council is also considering taking over some youth service provision.

No increase in Suffolk County Council's share of the council tax means that people living in band D properties will continue to pay £1,126.

Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, Leader of Suffolk County Council, said: "The budget we've passed today has been the hardest we've ever had to set but at every meeting, discussion and debate, the long-term best interests of the most vulnerable people in Suffolk have been paramount. It's for that very reason we have focused the cuts on bureaucracy and limited the impact on frontline public services."

"I didn't enter local politics to cut public services. This situation is not of our making but we are the ones that have to face up to it and steer Suffolk through challenging times ahead."

"During our consultations, communities told us they would be interested in running council services but they needed more time. We have listened. That's why today we agreed a £1.7m transition fund to buy time for communities and the voluntary sector to come forward with proposals."

Town waste site escapes the axe

HAVERHILL'S household waste recycling centre has been saved from the axe – but seven others in Suffolk are to close.

Fears had already been expressed by local residents that fly-tipping could escalate if the site in Coupals Road, Haverhill, were closed.

Traffic is often seen queuing along the adjoining road as residents wait to dispose of their rubbish.

At its meeting last

Thursday, Suffolk County Council agreed to go ahead with a proposal to close seven of its 18 Household Waste Recycling Centres and reduce opening hours at the remaining sites, as part of a £2.3 million saving from the waste services budget.

The sites to close in May include Newmarket, with Haverhill staying open, along with Mildenhall, Bury St Edmunds and Sudbury.

Lisa Chambers, Portfolio Holder for Waste, said: "Our aim is to make sure the vast majority of Suffolk residents can get to a site in around 20 minutes drive time. We have also looked at factors such as the number of people using each site, recycling rates and the costs of running them."

She added that the council remained committed to recycling.

And she warned: "Flytipping is both anti-social and illegal. We'll be working with our partners in Suffolk's district and borough councils to prosecute anyone who breaks the law in this way."

From April 1, the new opening hours will be: April to September: 9am-5pm – Monday to Saturday, October to March: 9am-4pm – Monday to Saturday, All year round: 10am until 4pm – Sundays and bank holidays.

Award winners on the up

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PAST winners of the Haverhill Business Awards have continued to grow and prosper.

Judging will begin soon for this year's awards, organised by Haverhill Chamber of Commerce with the Weekly News as a media partner, to be presented at a Gala Ball at Chilford Hall, Linton, on May 14.

As the closing date for entries and nominations for the latest awards has been extended to 5pm on Friday, March 11, by popular request, we look back at how some of the winners of the 2008 awards have fared in particularly difficult trading times.

Overall winner of the Business of the Year and export awards was Mansol Preforms of Hollands Road, Haverhill, and since 2008 the company has continued to steadily increase its export markets, with an increase of more than 50 per cent in exports to China.

Derek Cherry, managing director, said: "For the most part the increase has been due to the demand for fibre optic preforms and spray dried glass powder for customers in China. To accommodate this, mainly with the specialist fibre optic preforms, we have invested in the company by increasing the fibre optic manufacturing area to include two new electric furnaces and also bespoke pneumatic presses which have been designed and built at Mansol.

Exports up: Derek Cherry of Mansol Preforms

"From my contact with other businesses in the town, I feel that Haverhill has a very vibrant business community. Having won two awards before, we felt this time it was more appropriate to sponsor the export award and I would encourage everyone to enter, as it is an opportunity to showcase their business."

Key Education, which provides teachers for schools across East

Anglia, was a relatively new business when it picked up the customer service award in 2008. The company will be five years old in May and has increased from 300 to 1,300 teachers on its books.

Founder Debby Dyson said: "When you start up a business from scratch, the first year is a loss, the second you just keep going and by the third you start to get somewhere. Since then it has been great, we are in the process of moving out of rented accommodation and buying our own premises."

"It is a tricky industry to be in, with all the public spending cuts. A lot of education recruitment businesses have struggled, but we have managed to keep going and find jobs for our teachers.

"We wanted to give something back to the schools, so we started a system where if a school employs one of our teachers for five days they get a £25 national book token. If they employ teachers for 10 days they get £50 and so on.

"With the closure of the middle schools we have been supplying teachers on a long-term basis to some schools, who have been getting thousands of pounds worth of book tokens.

"It is hard work, 24/7. On Sunday nights our phones never stop ringing, as teachers are calling in sick. It is quite satisfying to know that you are supplying good quality teachers. It is nice to get the recognition of an award and we include it on our emails."

Tiny Toes childcare, which won the small company award, has grown since the last awards, moving into new purpose-built premises off Haverhill bypass in the September of 2008 and more than doubling its workforce.

For details of public voting in the Customer Service and Employer of the Year categories, as well as entry to others, visit www.suffolkchamber.co.uk.

Time is running out to nominate for the awards. Entries must be in by Friday, March 11. Go to www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhill and follow the 'Business Awards' link.

The categories are:

World of make believe: youngsters from the Stepping Stones playgroup show off their costumes. Picture: David Johnson 714349

Children show it's a kind of magic

TINY fairies and mini wizards had fun in an enchanted forest at the weekend.

A group of 22 children aged under 5 enjoyed a Fantasy Day at the Stepping Stones playgroup in Haverhill. They dressed up as fairies, wizards and elves to take part in games and dances, then had their photographs taken against a fantasy background. The group, which has its own premises at Coupsals Primary School, has a waiting list for places on (01440) 761018.

Elaine McManus, leader of the group, said: "All the children had a fun time at the Fairy School event. Girls dressed as fairies and boys were dressed as wizards. There was a range of activities to do, including handprints, bracelet making, edible fairy dust and stories.

"Fantasy photographs were taken by Believe Photography of the children in their costumes, and this was a fundraising venture for Stepping Stones."

Tragic mum in warning to teen drinkers

A MOTHER has told how her 28-year-old alcoholic son has just months to live after binge drinking since the age of 15.

Matthew Stiebrins, from Haverhill, is a patient at Addenbrooke's Hospital where doctors are unsure whether he will make his next birthday on May 4.

He began drinking vodka as a young teenager. The deadly habit has attacked his brain and left him with irreversible cirrhosis of the liver.

Matthew has warned binge drinkers of the consequences of their behaviour and his mother has told how the years of heavy drinking have consumed him.

Dawn Titterington, 49, mother of the former Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College pupil, said: "He was a lovely boy, a really good kid who never got into trouble.

"When he was 15 he got into a crowd that liked going out drinking, like many teenagers do. The others grew out of it but Matthew didn't – he didn't stop.

"We didn't notice how much he was drinking for a long time. He drank vodka so we couldn't smell it on him, or would drink at a friend's so he would be more sober when he got home."

Dawn, who works as a seamstress, said Matthew's drinking slowly escalated and by the time he was 18 he was addicted and shoplifting to fund his habit.

She said: "You worry most about drugs but drink just sent him off the rails.

"It's so terrible because he is so young but his body is like an old man. The alcohol has eaten away at his brain and muscles and destroyed his organs.

"It happened over a period of 10 years. That's the trouble with liver cirrhosis – it doesn't affect you straight away.

"Matthew's grandmother and aunt were both alcoholics and they died the way Matt will.

"These teenagers say it's boring not to drink but they don't realise that it is slowly affecting their health."

Matthew is warning young binge-drinkers not to end up like him and says if they do, they will realise too late how precious life really is.

Darts league bosses hoping teams will be on target for hospice funds

LEADERS of a new charity darts league are hoping to sign up more teams and attract trophy sponsors.

The Hav Charity Darts League – which will raise funds for St Nicholas Hospice Care – is set to launch at Haverhill in April or May.

Andrew Pordage, who has been involved with darts in the town for 30 years, said the league would be run on Monday nights.

He said: "We hope all the teams will run events to raise funds for St Nicholas Hospice Care. There will be a charity pool and darts night open to everyone in winter and summer, where all proceeds will go into the charity pot, and we will also encourage all the venues to run events in aid of the Hospice."

The new league chose to support St Nicholas Hospice Care after Andrew's mother, Lynn Pordage, spent time there before she died last year.

He added: "From my point of view there's no better local charity. The charity trophy will be in my mum's name and the team that raises the most will keep it for a season," he said.

"We're hoping teams will really embrace the charity side and take a bit of pride in how much they raise."

For more information, to sign up or if you think you could sponsor a trophy, contact Andrew on 07814 373772.

Would you like to be a councillor?

ASPIRING councillors can find out more about how to stand at the elections in May at workshops starting next week.

The events are for anyone interested in standing as a borough councillor on May 5, or for anyone interested in learning more about a councillor's role.

They will be held from 6-7.30pm on Monday, February 28, and from 6-7.30pm on Tuesday, March 8, in the Conference Room East, West Suffolk House, Western Way, Bury St Edmunds.

The workshops offer the opportunity to meet councillors and learn about decision making, standards, ethics and support.

To take part, contact the electoral services team by email at elections@stedsbcc.gov.uk or call (01284) 757105.

Site closure will lead to flytipping

Sir, Having read in the Weekly News that the waste site at Haverhill could be one of the seven sites due to be closed in Suffolk, this is a big concern. It will definitely lead to flytipping in and around Haverhill as there is no way people would travel to Bury St Edmunds waste site, especially when the price of fuel is at a record high. I would urge the council to stop and think about closing the site. If they close the site, are they going to reduce our council tax bills? I don't think so. They will keep on putting it up, whatever. By closing the site it may also cost them more because they will have to go round clearing up all the rubbish on the streets due to flytipping. They will also have the added problem of more rats on the streets.

Cameras power up at road death site

A SPEED camera will finally go online near to where two teenagers died on the A1307 – nine months after they were installed.

Work to install the cameras was started in July last year but they were promised 18 months before.

Confusion over connecting the new speed camera to the electricity grid led to its switch-on being delayed.

The camera pole and box had been installed, but the camera would not operate until the electricity supply was connected.

Cambridgeshire highways chiefs have now said the roadside cameras will go online on Wednesday.

Campaigners have welcomed the news after a

BY RAYMOND BROWN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

lengthy battle to make the road safer.

The cameras are close to the Cardinals Green junction where 15-year-old Imogen Barker and Alice Westland, 16, died in separate collisions after getting off buses.

Esther Cornell, of the Access 1307 group, said the camera had been promised more than two years ago and, although it was a long time coming, was very welcome. She said: "This is excellent news."

"It was put up about eight or nine months ago and I think they were waiting for Government guidelines, but to have a camera put up and not use it is stupid.

"This should reduce the speed of traffic and that is good. Anything that will help with speed on the A1307 is welcome."

But plans for a second camera near Hildersham have been shelved.

The campaigner said: "There are people and children having to cross three lanes to get to a bus stop at Hildersham. There should be a camera there, too."

"Expecting residents to cross a road that carries nearly 20,000 vehicles a year without a crossing point is not on."

A spokesman for Cambridgeshire County Council said: "We were waiting for the all clear from the electricity company, which we will have, and the cameras will be working on Wednesday."

End of an era as club shuts doors

AFTER more than 50 years as a busy social hub, a members club has gone into administration and closed its doors for the last time.

The Mount Pleasant Club, formerly the Conservative Club, in Withersfield Road, Haverhill, opened for the final time last Sunday.

It has been put in the hands of administrators, who will put it up for sale to try to pay off creditors.

Glen Edwards, a member of the committee which ran the club, said membership had dwindled over the past year and it had no longer been able to keep going.

He said: "It is a sad thing, but if you are running a business and you are not making enough money to pay your bills you cannot go on like that.

"We had a disastrous summer, followed by a disastrous World Cup, then the bad weather kept people away over Christmas."

"A lot of people have lost their jobs during the recession and they cannot afford to come to the club. Also, the increase in home entertainment with Sky and Facebook means a lot of people stay at home these days."

Club chairman Barry Robbins said: "We put back the annual membership fees until April in the hope that things would pick up, because we did not want to take people's money if we were going to have to close."

"I don't blame the members because a lot of them cannot afford to go down there."

Sweet treats help raise cash for concert

CHOIR members have been munching through tubes of Smarties, ready to fill up the empty tubes with cash to help pay for their next concert.

The tubes of sweets handed out at rehearsals this week can be refilled with coins, with £12 fitting in when full.

Haverhill and District Choral Society is well into rehearsals for its spring concert, to be held at the Old Independent Church in Hamlet Road on Saturday, April 9 at 7.30pm.

Recently, members learnt from Musical Director Jane Wright that a concert next year will be a joint venture with Sudbury Choral Society, with the two choirs combining, plus a large orchestra, to perform Verdi's Requiem in St Edmundsbury Cathedral. Bigger concerts cost more to stage, so the Haverhill Society is organising fundraising events, including regular raffles at rehearsals and table top sales.

A coffee morning will be held at Haverhill Library on Saturday, March 26, from 10am to 1pm, with a raffle and cake stall, which everyone is welcome to attend.

It all adds up for whizz kids

MATHS stars from Linton have qualified for a regional competition.

A team of four Year 10 maths students from Linton Village College have got to the regional final of the Further Mathematics Network.

The Cambridgeshire regional heats, which took place on last Thursday, saw Kieran Glass-smith, Katie Howard, Alice Merryweather and Sophie Mitchell come second out of 15 teams in the heats at Linton Village College.

Contestants had to solve a number of complex maths problems as quickly as possible.

First place went to Perse School for Boys and both schools go through to the regional final at Cambridge University's Centre for Mathematical Sciences in May.

Mum's fraud to clothe children

Woman used false details to obtain store card

MOTHER of six Lisa Wallace used the name of a former childhood friend to set up a store card account which she did not pay.

Wallace, 35, appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrates court on Tuesday, where she admitted a charge of fraud by ordering goods from Next Directory, using a false name and date of birth.

Magistrates adjourned her case for sentence until March 15 so that a social services report could be prepared after hearing that eight previous convictions for a total of 33 offences, including 19 of fraud and nine of theft.

Stuart Roy, chairman of the magistrates, told Wallace: "You have got a record going back some way with similar crimes.

"Hopefully, probation will be

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

able to help you and we need to look into why you are continually committing the same type of crime, even though you will get caught again."

Wayne Ablett, prosecuting, said Wallace set up a Next account using her own address, but giving the name and date of birth of a woman she had known as a child, but lost contact with.

She ordered goods valued at almost £300, but did not pay the account.

The debt was passed on to a company who contacted the woman whose name was used, who recognised the address as that of Lisa Wallace.

Police were informed and some of the clothes ordered were found at Wallace's home.

After this offence was committed, Wallace appeared in court in relating to e-bay fraud charges in July 2010 and was given a conditional discharge for 12 months.

Clare Lockwood, mitigating for Wallace, said her client was remorseful for the offences, which were committed at a time of financial difficulties.

She said: "Her husband had a gambling problem, where a lot of the household money was going, and she found it very difficult. She has six children, so there are many mouths to feed.

"All the items were ordered were for her children and she fully accepts that she set up an account in a false name, because she knew she would not get credit in her own name."

Pensioner drunk on mobility scooter

PENSIONER David Hutchinson celebrated his 65th birthday with a few drinks with his 92-year-old father – and was arrested the next morning for being drunk in charge of his mobility scooter.

The pensioner, who was in breach of a suspended prison sentence for driving a car while disqualified and with excess alcohol, appeared before magistrates at Bury St Edmunds on Tuesday.

Hutchinson, of The Birches, Red Lodge, admitted a charge of being drunk in charge of a pedal cycle at Red Lodge last November.

Magistrates extended the period of his suspended 16 week prison sentence by three months, ordered him to pay a £75 fine and £100 costs.

Wayne Ablett, prosecuting, said a police officer who saw Hutchinson riding his electrically powered vehicle and gave him a breathalyzer, which gave a reading of 125 millilitres of alcohol to 100 milligrams of breath. Because the scooter was not a mechanically propelled vehicle it counted in law as equivalent to a pedal cycle.

Previously Hutchinson was convicted of a driving with excess alcohol offence in 2009

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

and of driving while disqualified last February, for which he was given the suspended sentence and banned from driving for three years.

Claire Lockwood, mitigating, said the period of his suspended sentence had now expired and he had complied with it, including a curfew condition.

She said: "This is the first breach of the order, which is now finished and I feel it would be unjust to activate the suspended sentence now. You could make it more onerous by extending it for a further three months."

"He fully accepts that he was under the influence of alcohol, but due to his diabetes, alcohol takes longer to be absorbed into his body, which would make the reading higher."

"He had celebrated his birthday the night before with his 92-year-old father and drank a bit more than usual."

"He was celebrating because he did not think he would see 65, as he has a number of health problems. He has had two cancer operations and is still under the care of the hospital."

Groups urged to help rescue youth clubs

LOCAL groups and individuals are being urged to come forward with ideas to save youth clubs or run alternative services.

Suffolk County Council wants groups, businesses and individuals to run the service by taking on 29 of the county's youth clubs, or run alternative services for young people.

Haverhill Town Council has already expressed an interest in taking over some youth services.

During a consultation period, which runs until March 31, people can have their say by visiting the county council's website www.suffolk.gov.uk/youthclub2011 or by requesting a booklet and questionnaire.

Councillor Graham Newman, Portfolio Holder for Children, Schools and Young People said: "As a result of reductions to the county council's funding, we identified late last year that we would not be able to continue to run youth clubs which have historically been our responsibility. It costs the county council £850,000 a year to operate its 30 open access youth clubs, and we know for a fact there are many more similar volunteer-organised clubs which enjoy much greater support, but cost a lot less to run."

"The sad fact is that we only attract about 1 per cent of all Suffolk's young people to our youth clubs, which is really marginal compared to the potential numbers."

Solicitor clocks up 40 years

COLLEAGUES cracked open the champagne to celebrate a solicitor's completion of four decades of service with the same firm.

Paul Cammiss, a Managing Partner, at Adams Harrison which has offices at Haverhill and Saffron Walden, reached 40 years' service on Tuesday and was surprised by a presentation of champagne and a pewter tankard, as well as a celebration cake.

Mr Cammiss lives at Haverhill with his wife of 38 years, Lin, and the couple have two daughters and two grandchildren. Mr Cammiss has also been national chairman of the 41 Club for former Round Table members.

Now 62, Mr Cammiss was 21

when he started work at Adams Land as the firm was then called and employed only four staff members.

Mr Cammiss said he did not plan to retire for a few more years and still enjoyed his work. He said: "The greatest changes have been in technology, which has been massive. You did not have mobile phones, you did not have computers and electric typewriters were only just coming in when I started. Even photocopying was much more involved, you didn't just press a button.

"I find criminal work most interesting, as you never know what you are going to be doing when you start work in the morning. Only three weeks ago, I was involved in a case reported in the national press when I was duty solicitor at Chelmsford and represented a guy who made a bomb threat and got a plane diverted."

Caravan site expansion bid rejected

CONTROVERSIAL plans to extend a family gypsy site have been refused after a site inspection.

The Kelly's Meadow site at Wickham Street, Depden, near Wickhambrook, was visited by members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee on last Thursday.

The committee refused the application by Linda and Vera Goodey because it was held to be unsatisfactory, due to its location in relation to services, its effect on the character and appearance in the countryside and the provision of satisfactory highway access.

The site inspection was held after a lengthy debate at the development control committee meeting on February 3. The applicants wanted to enlarge the site from three to 10 caravans, provide of two amenity buildings and form a new access on to the A143.

Officers had recommended that the plan should be approved.

Cllr Geoffrey Claydon, chairman of Wickhambrook parish council, said the village was happy with its own caravan site, with three caravans exclusively for the Goodey family and a clause that it revert to grass paddock if they moved on.

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A parish council meeting had become 'almost a riot' after St Edmundsbury Borough Council said the land was to become a designated travellers' site.

Cllr Claydon said: "It is questionable whether all these facilities are necessary.

"As for the policy, the directive of the last government has been scrapped and confirmed by the Minister of Agriculture last week: and in the current climate of financial restraint, perhaps some serious thought should be given to this proposal."

Cll Mark Leadbeater, chairman of Depden Parish Council, said: "We are concerned that this is the further expansion of a site that was originally opposed by the council and we would like some reassurance that this isn't just a stepping stone to 18 caravans or 24 in the future."

John Popham, agent for the Goodeys, said they had "a pressing and genuine need" for the site extension, with two family members seriously ill and one daughter's family with nowhere else to go.

Do the business to raise funds for vital helpline

DRAGON'S Den star Deborah Meaden is urging businesses to get behind the Weekly News' ChildLine Challenge, which aims to raise more than £30,000 for the helpline.

With our sister paper the Cambridge News, we are looking for 20 local firms to take part in the challenge by raising £1,600 each – the cost of recruiting and training one ChildLine counsellor.

The businesses will compete against each other to see who can raise the most cash for the children's charity and they will receive extensive publicity in the Weekly News, the Cambridge News, and our website.

Companies which have already accepted the challenge include Poochie Parlour in Cambridge and Absolute Sense IFA in Ely. There is also a fantastic first prize for the business that raises the most – a table for 10 people in the corporate marquee at this year's NSPCC Newmarket Race Day in July.

Last year, the charity received more than 500,000 calls. The most common issues children call about are abuse, neglect and bullying.

Deborah said: "I know that times are tough for businesses, but it's at times like these that the most vulnerable in society need the support of the general public and business community."

To enter the ChildLine Challenge, contact Christian Morris on (01353) 664875 or email christian.morris@nspcc.org.uk.

Places will be given on a first-come, first-served basis.

Busy MP covers a lot of ground

BUSY MP Matthew Hancock is officially the most active man in parliament.

The member for West Suffolk, who took over from long-serving predecessor Richard Spring at the last election, was presented with a prize for being the MP who walked the furthest over a week.

The competition involved 127 MPs wearing pedometers as they went about their daily business in Westminster. It was organised by Silver Star, a diabetes awareness organisation, which issued the pedometers to participating MPs to promote health and activity in our daily lives. Mr Hancock was presented with his prize by Earl Howe, Under Secretary of State for the Department of Health.

Mr Hancock said: "I was surprised and delighted to find out that I am the MP who walks the farthest. I often feel rushed off my feet working for my constituents and it is nice to be rewarded for it. Silver Star does wonderful and important work promoting awareness of diabetes, and I am happy to have had a chance to contribute to awareness of diabetes in this way."

Payments panel seeks members

MORE volunteers are needed for a panel which helps decide how big councillors' allowances should be.

Councillors in St Edmundsbury receive an allowance for their official duties. It is not intended as payment for the amount of hours they put in, but recognises they should have some financial support.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has a panel of independent, impartial people with no connection to the council which advises on how much these allowances should be.

The council is looking for people to join this Independent Remuneration Panel. It will involve two or three meetings a year to look at what councillors do, how much time they spend on their duties and recommend a fair level of payment.

If you are interested, call committee services manager Steven Lincoln on (01284) 757108 for an informal talk.

An information pack is online at <http://www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/sebc/live/IndependentRemunerationPanel.cfm>.

Or write to the head of legal and democratic services at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, West Suffolk House, Western Way, Bury St Edmunds, IP33 3YU.

Deadline for applications is March 4.

Colin Firth in
The King's Speech

Stammering research cash

FILM fans attending screenings this weekend of The King's Speech will be asked to support a collection for a Suffolk-based charity which funds research into stammering.

The award-winning film starring Colin Firth tells of how King George VI tackled his speech impediment. It will be showing at Haverhill Arts Centre and a collection will be made afterwards for the Dominic Baker Trust. This fund was set up in memory of a much-loved young man who found the burden of his stammering too great and took his own life. The trust supports research and also provides practical equipment to support the work of speech therapists and raises awareness of the issues surrounding stammering.

Question of aid for hospice

QUIZ fans can pit their wits against each other and help a hospice at the same time.

A charity quiz night and auction will be held on Saturday in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Proceeds of the event, at Haverhill Golf Club, will help organiser Charlie Hudson towards his £2,000 London Marathon fundraising target.

No more than six people are allowed per quiz team, with a prize for the winning side. Goodies up for grabs in the charity auction include a signed England cricket shirt.

Quizmaster for the night will be St Nicholas Hospice Care community fundraiser Ian Norris. Tickets cost £5, with an optional buffet at £5 per person. They are available from the Haverhill Golf Club office until Friday and the Pro Shop on Saturday.

Share your vision for town's next 20 years

At last, spring is in the air and it's all go in Haverhill!

Planning is under way for the next 20 years in Haverhill and the borough council is asking local people what they think the three main issues facing the town are, and for their vision of how it should be.

These views will be included in Haverhill Vision 2031, which will be used to direct future investment.

People have already begun telling us about the need for shops, jobs, open spaces, schools, transport, health, social services, leisure and planning for new neighbourhoods.

You can have your say at drop-in sessions on Monday, March 7, from 4-7pm at Haverhill Leisure Centre and on Thursday, March 10, from 4-7pm at New Croft, Chalkstone Way. You can also fill in reply-paid cards, available at the council offices, library, arts centre and leisure centre, go online at www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk, email LDF@stedsb.gov.uk or call (01284) 757352 or 757368.

An Apprenticeship open evening at West Suffolk College, Bury St Edmunds in February, attracted a record number of enquirers.

The number of enquirers was 15 per cent higher than the same Open Event last year.

The number of employers who attended was double that of the previous year. Organisations like Suffolk County Council, Center Parcs, British Sugar and Marshalls Aerospace were among employers represented on the night.

There is hardly an occupation which doesn't have an Apprenticeship. Anyone over 16 can take up an Apprenticeship. For those aged 19-24 the training is part subsidised.

Work Based Learning courses start on different dates throughout the year. There are opportunities to combine study with paid work under the Apprenticeship scheme.

The College has set up a new service, the Suffolk Apprenticeship Training Agency (SATA), to help organisations recruit Apprentices. SATA will employ the Apprentice while the company acts as host employer, paying a monthly service fee directly to SATA.

The Job Ladder scheme run by the College will provide a toolkit of the basic skills candidates need to develop before starting on an Apprenticeship. Work Based Learning courses start on different dates throughout the year.

The College logs Apprenticeship vacancies online, and link up to the national vacancies service where over 100,000 potential apprentices are registered.

To find out more about Apprenticeships at West Suffolk College, contact the Apprenticeship team on 01284 716333, email info@wsc.ac.uk or visit the College website, www.westsuffolk.ac.uk

West Suffolk College gets ready to welcome YOU

Staff at West Suffolk College are preparing to welcome hundreds of visitors to Open Events in March.

Two events – an open morning on Saturday 5 March from 9.30am to 12.00pm and an Open Evening on Monday 7 March from 6.30pm to 8.30pm – are expected to attract a large number of enquirers, both at the main campus in Out Risbygate and at the College's Construction Training premises in Anglian Lane.

CHOOSE LIFE, CHOOSE WEST SUFFOLK COLLEGE

Recently published Performance Indicator league tables for 16 to 18 year olds at advanced level ranked West Suffolk College as the top FE College in Suffolk.

College Principal Dr Ann Williams said: "These league tables show how well we prepare students for employment and university entrance. We are proud of our success in enabling 400 of our full-time students to get university places throughout the country last year."

UCS Bury St Edmunds, based on the site of West Suffolk College, offers a range of Foundation and Honours degrees and information will be available on all Higher Education courses.

The Open Events will offer advice and information on all Full-time and Part-time and Adult Education courses, as well as Workforce Development and Apprenticeship courses.

Work Based Learning courses start on different dates throughout the year and an Apprenticeship allows you to combine study with paid work.

The College has set up a new service, the Suffolk Apprenticeship Training Agency (SATA), to help organisations recruit Apprentices. SATA will employ the Apprentice while the company acts as host employer, paying a monthly service fee directly to SATA.

The School of Participation at West Suffolk College runs a number of courses and schemes to prepare young people for further education, training or employment.

14 to 16 year old students can come to College on a School Link programme to study vocational subjects or undertake a Young Apprenticeship.

To find out more about all these courses and programmes, please come along to the Open Events on 5 March 9.30am-12.00pm or 7 March 6.30pm-9.30pm, contact the Information Centre on 01284 716333, info@wsc.ac.uk or log on to www.westsuffolk.ac.uk

Town reaching out for views of young adults

VIEWS of younger adults are being sought as part of the consultation exercise to plan the development of Haverhill over the next two decades.

The February meeting of thebestofhaverhill group at the town's Days Inn welcomed Chris Rand, principal planning policy officer, planning and economic development services, at St Edmundsbury Borough Council as guest speaker.

Mr Rand spoke to more than 40 representatives from local businesses and organisations about the latest Masterplan for Haverhill – the Haverhill Vision 2031.

Businesses were encouraged to go out and spread the word to their colleagues and friends about the Vision 2031 in an attempt to obtain as much feedback as possible.

Mr Rand emphasised the need to reach the 18-45 age bracket – those people who are often the busiest with the least time to participate in such an exercise. He said it was this group that would be most affected by what happened to Haverhill over the next 20 years, so their input was key.

Mr Rand said the council was working to gather ideas and opinions on how local people wanted to see Haverhill develop over the next two decades. It was keen to find out what people thought was wrong with the town and what was right. Those views would then influence the plan that would be proposed following the consultation.

There were several questions raised at the meeting about the villages and the level of input that they would have into the plan. There was a concern that many villages were in neighbouring counties but viewed Haverhill as their main town.

Mr Rand said that the views of those living in the outlying villages would be gathered and taken into consideration.

The issue of the balance between the growth of Haverhill and the impact on the villages was also raised. Mr Rand said if villages were involved in the consultation, they might realise there would be little effect on them and that they could actually benefit from improved services.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, said: "It was a very positive meeting. I think local businesses are keen to see the town develop and are pleased that St Edmundsbury Borough Council is engaging so actively with the general public and stakeholders to find out what we think and what we want."

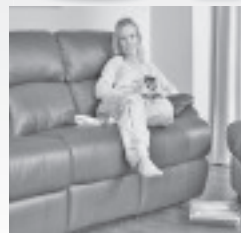

"These continue to be very exciting times for the town and I hope that as many people as possible will leave their feedback and help to shape the future of Haverhill."

Masterplan: Haverhill's business initiative will decide the town's future over the next two decades. CP

Family carries on fight with fund set up in wife's memory

Devastated by loss: Gerald Coteman

Picture: Warren Gunn 712026

As he walked away from the consulting room, a lump caught in his throat, Gerald Coteman felt utterly helpless. His wife of more than 30 years had cancer. And he'd just been told she was going to die.

"The consultant was very open and honest with me," remembers the father-of-four. "She told me that, of all those people diagnosed with pancreatic cancer, just 3 per cent live up to five years; most survive for only six months.

"I remember walking down that corridor and knowing I was going to lose Elizabeth. At that stage, of course, I hoped she might be among the 3 per cent – that she might have five years. But, either way, I still knew I was going to lose her."

Elizabeth died on April 22 last year, aged 59, 16 months after her cancer diagnosis. "The loss is just devastating; there's no other word for it," says Gerald. "I have come to terms with her death – the process of death, of burying someone: I've dealt with that – but I haven't come to terms with the loss. There's just such a huge gap in all our lives."

Some 7,700 people in the UK are diagnosed with pancreatic cancer each year. With the lowest survival rate of all cancers, it is the fifth most common cause of cancer death.

A gland organ, tucked in just beneath the stomach, the pancreas produces hormones – including insulin – as well as digestive enzymes. Because of its location and the vital role it plays in the working of the body, treatment of pancreatic cancer is notoriously difficult; surgery is often deemed impossible.

"When Elizabeth was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer she was given a death sentence, there's no question about that," says Gerald.

"And that has to change. At the moment people are effectively told 'You have pancreatic cancer, go home and die'; we want to reach a point where we can say 'You have pancreatic cancer, this is how we can help you.'"

In the wake of Elizabeth's death, Gerald and his family established a fund in her memory. Called the Elizabeth Coteman Fund, it aims to raise both money and awareness. Along with providing support for patients and families, the fund will channel money directly into research – including the work of Dr Dave Tuveson, professor of pancreatic cancer medicine at the Cambridge Research Institute. An impressive £10,000 has already been collected. "The fund has been an important focus for us all," says Gerald. "Elizabeth actually started the fundraising – and we wanted to carry it on for her; we wanted to feel we were doing something positive."

Gerald says Elizabeth's illness dates back to the summer of 2008, when she noticed some changes in her bowel; by the September, she was showing signs of jaundice. Otherwise feeling fit and well, she went to the GP for a check-up. When tablets, prescribed to ease the jaundice, had no effect, she was referred for a scan.

"It was Friday, December 19. We were supposed to be going out with friends that night," remembers Gerald. "She got a call asking her to go straight to Addenbrooke's. We were told 'There's a tumour on the pancreas and we're pretty certain it's cancer'."

"When something like that happens, the adrenalin kicks in and your emotions get parked for a while; you just get on and deal with it. I equate it to when Laura, one of our daughters, was paralysed in a car accident: she was only 16 at the time and we almost lost her. When we arrived in A&E in the middle of the night, the doctor said 'I ought to tell you there's no movement below the waist'.

"The news sinks in, but you have to get on and deal with the situation. So I called the kids together and told them 'They've found a lump'. And that was the beginning of it all, really; we were facing the first of what has now been three Christmases with a shadow hanging over us."

A biopsy confirmed the tumour was malignant. Sitting at the neck of the pancreas, right beside a major blood vessel, surgeons said an excision – known as a Whipple procedure – was possible but high-risk. Opting to have the surgery, Elizabeth underwent a nine-hour operation early in January 2009.

"She was incredibly stoical," says Gerald. "She lost her own mum aged 57, to lung cancer, and she had this ability to deal with pain – all sorts of pain, not just physical – incredibly well. She was an absolute rock. And she dealt with this extraordinarily; if she was angry, she didn't display it."

Surgeons deemed the operation a success and, after 10 days in hospital, Elizabeth was allowed home to recuperate. It was while she was recovering that Gerald saw the oncologist alone – Elizabeth didn't feel well enough to attend the appointment. That's when he was given her prognosis, something he, initially, chose to keep to himself.

The next step was, Gerald explains, palliative chemo. But, after months of treatment, tests revealed that cancer markers in Elizabeth's blood were on the rise, not fall: despite everything, the cancer appeared to be spreading.

"They called off the chemo; it wasn't doing any good," recounts Gerald, who lives in Oakington. "From that point on, June 2009, she was preparing for the worst."

"Elizabeth didn't want to tell the kids; that was one thing she just couldn't do. So I got all the guys round the kitchen table one Saturday morning and told them what we had been told – that we had to be realistic. I can still remember their faces now."

Ever since the surgery, Elizabeth had struggled to eat; over the intervening months, she had lost a lot of weight. But Gerald says his wife – who was also his colleague as they worked together in the family business for 25 years – was determined to "keep on top of everything and make sure everyone else was all right, that's what she always did.

"She had rationalised it; she knew she was seriously ill. She used to talk about wanting to spend time with me, to grow old with me... But because of the person she was she was busy preparing everything."

"Before she even went into hospital for the original operation she organised all the linen in the airing cupboard, putting labels on the bedding and towels: 'bath towels', 'squash and cricket towels'. She was constantly thinking of things she needed to do, or thought she needed to do. She was always thinking about everyone else."

Gerald and Elizabeth met in the mid-70s, through her sister, Judith. Three weeks after their first proper date, Gerald proposed. "I proposed to her in the market square in Cambridge," he smiles. "It was pouring with rain and we'd both had a few drinks. It was a case of 'Will I still feel like this when I'm sober?'; she probably felt the same! Six months later, we were married."

Describing their marriage as 'a genuine partnership: we were equal in everything apart from having the babies', Gerald says Elizabeth loved being a mum – and adored her four children, Emma, now 29, Laura, 27, Gemma, 24, and Mark, 22. "She loved being a mother and she was very good at it as well."

Gerald says Elizabeth was also 'incredibly close' to sister Judith who, just a month after Elizabeth had her surgery, also underwent the rare Whipple operation – in her case to remove a benign growth. Judith has since made a good recovery.

In the summer of 2009, despite losing more weight, Elizabeth seemed determined to live as normal – and as full – a life as possible. "I don't know whether it was a result of reconciling herself to what was going on, but she seemed to have a really good time that summer. But then, in the September, a scan showed a dark spot on her liver, which turned out to be cirrhosis."

By Christmas, Elizabeth's once size 10 frame had shrunk dramatically. "But, typically, at Christmas she did a very good job of making sure everybody else was OK," recalls Gerald. "As I said, that's just the way she was."

In March last year, Elizabeth and Judith held a huge fundraiser at Hardwick Social Club in aid of cancer research. "They raised £1,500," says Gerald. "Mark and I were up in Edinburgh. I called Elizabeth to see how the event was going and she sounded so bright and cheery: she was so vibrant I could almost touch her down the phone..."

That was on March 13. By the beginning of April, Elizabeth was confined to a wheelchair. Gerald took her to see the stage show War Horse in the West End – longing to go, Elizabeth had booked the tickets six months earlier. "I remember sitting in the theatre," says Gerald, "holding her hand, looking across and thinking 'You are very ill!'."

Elizabeth died at home a few weeks later, her whole family around her. Gerald put work on hold to care for her; he says both Judith and the children were an 'amazing' source of support.

"She wasn't in pain, she was just fading away. I realised when I got up that morning what was happening, so I called all the family. We just saw her slip away, and that was it..."

Since the funeral, held at the church where the Cotemans married, all the family have thrown themselves into fundraising and promoting awareness of pancreatic cancer – hence Gerald's decision to share his story.

"I still haven't dealt with the loss. I feel angry sometimes. And I quite often feel guilty too: guilty that I'm still here and healthy, and Elizabeth isn't," adds Gerald.

"But the fund has been a great focus. Elizabeth started the fundraising with Judith and we want to carry it on, to take on the challenge for her. If we can stop anyone having to go through what we've been through... ultimately, that's what it's all about."

Band aiming for £50k record deal

MEMBERS of the band Poontang have reached the regional finals of the UK's biggest original music competition, Live and Unsigned.

Poontang, with members from Cambridge and Haverhill, will be competing against the most talented bands and artists in the country at the regional final showcase of Live and Unsigned 2011 – all in a bid to be signed.

The band battled against hundreds of acts to secure a spot in the live shows and now have the opportunity to prove they are the best in the region.

Live and Unsigned is the biggest original music competition in the UK for unsigned bands and artists, attracting more than 50,000 entries in the past five years.

All the acts are competing for the chance to play at the Live and Unsigned Festival at the O2 in London.

The overall winner is offered a recording and Regional finalists: Poontang, and, inset, two of the competition judges, singers Noddy Holder and Shola Ama management contract with Future Music with an investment of up to £50,000.

The winners will be crowned the UK's best unsigned act in front of a capacity crowd on the main stage of the festival.

Judges involved this year include former Slade frontman Noddy Holder, R'n'B star Shola Ama and Radio 1's Annie Nightingale, Ras Kwame and Tom Deacon.

The winners will be thrust into the media spotlight through television, radio and the press and will have the opportunity to go on a world tour.

Poontang play in the regional final on April 9 at Ipswich Corn Exchange.

Thank you for the music!

It's time to dig out those flares and dust off the platforms as top ABBA tribute show heads this way...

A BRAND-NEW show celebrating the 35th anniversary of ABBA's biggest-selling hit Dancing Queen, comes to Cambridge with the original ABBA tribute concert show Thank You for the Music.

Now in its 18th year, Thank You for the Music has entertained the nation for even longer than Bjorn, Agnetha, Benny and Frida did during the 1970s and 1980s.

And to celebrate Dancing Queen's 35th anniversary, a completely new concert show takes to the road this year, taking in the UK's top live music venues.

Thank You for the Music has previously outsold the likes of Status Quo, Jim Davidson and Lulu.

All the hits are there – including Dancing Queen,

Super Trouper, Waterloo, Knowing Me, Knowing You, The Name of the Game, Mamma Mia, Take a Chance on Me and Thank You For the Music – as ABBA's incredible live shows are faithfully reproduced.

Thank You for the Music is a theatrical romp through the decades.

The show has it all – a star-studded cast, glittering costumes and superb musicianship.

So, hitch up your hot pants and prepare to be dazzled.

Swinging back to the Sixties

AFTER their hugely successful show last year, The Overtures are back by popular demand with the sights and sounds of the 1960s. The Bootleg Sixties is at Haverhill Arts Centre tonight at 7.30pm, with the songs, stars and images of that swinging decade.

Time of her life

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

THE celebrated agony aunt Virginia Ironside explains that unlimited free drugs, fun funerals, grandchildren and sex (or, even better, no sex) make the Sixties the best and funniest time of your life in The Virginia Monologues, on Thursday, March 3 at 7.30pm. The show is directed by Nigel Planer (Neil from The Young Ones).

Lost and found

SUITABLE for children and young people with additional needs, Around and Around, a two-hour sensory performance and accompanying art workshop will take place tomorrow at 10.30am and 1.30pm. Come for either the morning or the afternoon and help the character Lost, who is going around and around in circles wondering who she is and where she's going until she meets some new friends. Places are £3, carers and siblings are free.

Writing for fun

HAVERHILL Arts Centre is working with James Campbell to produce six classes for Haverhill children in years 5 and 6, to inspire their humorous writing and performing. James has been performing his Comedy 4 Kids show around the world for 15 years. The classes will run every Wednesday between March 2 and April 6 and cost £18 for the course. Places are limited, call 01440 714140 to book.

Laugh a lot with the knights of Spamalot

TAKE a handful of singing, dancing knights, a killer rabbit, throw in some abusive French people and you've got a recipe for enduringly entertaining silliness.

Lovingly ripped off . . . sorry, re-created for the stage . . . Spamalot takes the wacky songs and characters of the classic 1975 film Monty Python and the Holy Grail and gives them new life, while staying true to the spirit of this cult comedy classic.

Written by Python stalwart Eric Idle (who also makes a virtual appearance in the show as God) and John DuPrez, Spamalot has been hailed as "a truly joyous and triumphant evening" by the Daily Express and "A knight to remember" – groan – by The Daily Telegraph. It also won the Tony Award for Best Musical on Broadway in 2005.

Spamalot follows King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table as they embark on a quest to get their hands on the Holiest of Grails, accompanied by a bevy of beautiful – though not entirely historically accurate – showgirls. On the way, Sir Lancelot, Sir Galahad, Sir Bedevere and (not so) Brave Sir Robin find themselves up against a bombardment of baddies. Remember the homicidal Black Knight ("Tis but a scratch!") and the Knights Who Say "Ni"?

Expect all your favourite songs too, including Knights of the Round Table and Always Look on the Bright Side of Life, together with plenty of all-round coconut-knocking, fish-slapping absurdity.

The cast for the Cambridge performances includes:

● Jodie Prenger (The Lady of the Lake). Prenger landed the role of Nancy in the West End revival of Oliver! after winning BBC reality show I'd Do Anything. Spamalot is her first musical theatre appearance since finishing that show, for which she won the 2010 Whatsonstage Theatregoer's Choice Award for Best Supporting Actress in a Musical. A regular presenter on TV and radio, she recently published her autobiography, My Story.

● Phill Jupitus (King Arthur). The longest-serving member of the Never Mind the Buzzcocks team and one-time host of 6Music's breakfast show, Jupitus is also a playwright, actor, singer and football pundit. He regularly appears on QI and I'm Sorry I Haven't a Clue and, since Ian Dury's death, has made regular appearances as frontman of The Blockheads.

● Todd Carty (Patsy). Carty is best known for four roles: loveable rogue Tucker Jenkins in Grange Hill and its spin-off, Tucker's Luck, Mark Fowler in EastEnders, evil copper Gabriel Kent in The Bill – and Dancing on Ice's most disastrous skater to date.

■ Monty Python's Spamalot, Cambridge Corn Exchange, until Saturday, Contact (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk

Retelling of Bard's Macbeth

GREED, ambition and murder most foul – MACBETH is one of the corner stones of our British cultural heritage, giving rise to some of theatre's greatest and most iconic villains – from the three witches to Lady Macbeth.

Cambridge Arts Theatre is hosting the UK's only performance of Cheek by Jowl's moody retelling of Shakespeare's tragedy. Working in English, French and Russian, Cheek by Jowl, founded by Declan Donnellan and Nick Ormerod, have established an international reputation for giving classic works a fresh and contemporary twist.

Performed in English, against a bare stage, with understated costumes, the story of a man and a woman bound together in ambition is conjured through sound and shadow, evoking ghosts, demons and the terrors of the imagination.

■ Macbeth, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, 7.45pm. Tickets cost from £15. Contact (01223) 503 333 / www.cambridgeartstheatre.com

The big film

certificate 15 103m

ACCORDING to The X-Files, the truth is out there . . . but you won't find it in Simon Pegg and Nick Frost's fantastical road movie.

In the same way that Shaun Of The Dead gleefully gnawed the funny bone of the zombie horror genre, and Hot Fuzz took aim at the countryside cop drama, Paul impishly probes feelgood sci-fi adventure, ET: The Extra-Terrestrial.

Spielberg's alien was a cuddly creature, who just wanted to phone home, but he bears little resemblance to Pegg and Frost's little grey man. Their visitor smokes pot, glugs beer and exposes his backside through the windscreens of a Winnebago.

He uses invisibility as a defence mechanism and can magically re-animate the dead, providing the film with one of its funniest sequences.

Director Greg Mottola's adventure opens in 1947 Wyoming with a spacecraft crash-landing on top of a red setter called Paul.

Flashing forward to present day

San Diego, best friends Graeme Willy (Simon Pegg) and Clive Gollings (Nick Frost) wander dumbstruck around the comic book and popular arts convention, Comic-Con before embarking on a road trip across America, stopping at locations associated with alien contact including Area 51, the Extraterrestrial Highway and the Black Mailbox.

En route, Graeme and Clive encounter Paul (voiced by Seth Rogen), a potty-mouthed alien stranded on Earth, who is being hunted by mysterious special agent Zoil (Jason Bateman). The pals agree to help Paul return home, abducting Ruth (Kristen Wiig), the one-eyed daughter of Bible-bashing a trailer park owner. British audiences love the double act of Pegg and Frost – their natural chemistry and sharp comic timing compels us to back Graeme and Clive as they risk life and limb to deliver their other-worldly buddy to his mother ship. Rogen brings a roguish charm to his titular hero. Next to Shaun Of The Dead and Hot Fuzz, Paul does feel flat but Pegg and Frost paper over the cracks with nods and winks to sci-fi films.

Things are looking up for gardens

Anyone visiting the major garden shows this year will no doubt see an array of vertical planting, featuring rich tapestries of plants in weird and wonderful structures.

Indeed, vertical planting caught on several years ago, inspired by Frenchman Patrick Blanc, who has transformed many buildings' facades into living art.

This concept is ideal if you have limited space or simply want to hide an ugly wall or fence, and while some designs may seem impractical or too complex to construct, manufacturers are attempting to help with a number of options.

You can now buy anything from simple black canvas pockets with a number of holes in them for the plants, which attach to the wall, to salad and herb vertical planters, living art frames displaying a combination of plants, and troughs which will house lush green plants over a wide area of wall, equipped with water reservoirs which will provide a steady trickle to the plants as they need it.

"Vertical planting has increased in popularity because it makes best use out of the urban garden where space is limited, while living walls are sustainable, eco-friendly, purify the air and reduce the heat in towns," says Gillian Bond of Treebox, a living wall specialist.

Felicity Waters, landscape architect at Garden Beet, says: "The larger the vertical garden the more complex it becomes in terms of maintenance and installation. If you are going to install a garden above head height you need to think how you are going to water, weed and feed the plants.

"Creating a living wall, say the size of a two-storey building, can look spectacular, but there is nothing worse than a dead living wall."

While elaborate schemes are available which involve professional installation, domestic gardeners can create their own living walls and vertical plantings without having to be DIY experts.

On a small scale, Burgon & Ball has just launched its Verti-Plant. Made from heavy duty non-woven material, it features planting pockets and an internal irrigation system which allows water to filter from one pocket to the next, while the bottom pockets are sealed to reduce drips and mess.

Priced £9.95 for two, it's available in good garden centres and at www.burgonandball.com

Alternatively, you can frame a floral or foliage display in a living art frame, priced £47.99 from www.gardenbeet.com

With larger constructions, you may have more success going for lush foliage plants rather than flowers. Good specimens for wall planting include ferns, euphorbia, ajuga, heuchera and geraniums. Place shade-loving varieties at the base of the area and sun-lovers, such as geraniums, thyme and sage, at the top.

Add some spring bulbs for a happy surprise when it is still cold, and try some wild strawberries for the children to pick all summer.

For something larger which you can put up yourself, Easiwall is a vertical planter comprising five self-watering troughs attached to a robust panel 500cm wide by 1m tall, that you fix to a wall. Priced £159, it's available from online stockists www.gardenbeet.com and selected nurseries. For information visit www.treebox.co.uk

Create as large or as small a vertical display as you like with the Woolly Wally Pocket, a new type of hanging basket or wall planter that can be used on its own or in groups to cover any wall to create a vertical garden.

Made from recycled plastic bottles, the pockets – measuring 61cm x 38cm – cost £34.99 each. They are available from www.gardenbeet.com.

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.

Honda's Civic Ti is a treat

THE new registration plate is due on March 1 and car makers are producing some spectacular models and offers to whet your appetite.

First up is Honda with the Civic Ti. Race-car looks are combined with high-spec interior equipment on this new limited edition model. Based on the 1.4 and 1.8 i-VTEC SE variants, the Civic Ti comes with £3,700 worth of extra equipment over and above the standard model.

The 5-door Civic is inspired by this season's Honda Racing British Touring Car challenger, and is fitted with unique, 17-inch 'Pro Race' wheels from Team Dynamics, Honda's racing partner in the BTCC.

The sporty image of these matt black wheels is enhanced by Honda's 'GP' body kit finished in Crystal Black, which provides a stark contrast to the exclusive Premium White Pearl body paint and body coloured trim. The race-like GP kit includes front spoiler, rear spoiler (finished in white), side skirt inserts and rear body skirts.

Inside, the Civic Ti – which goes on sale next month – is equipped with a state-of-the-art Pioneer Navigation Multimedia System, which offers full-scale satnav, entertainment and communication with a 3D graphic touch screen.

This high-end multimedia unit includes a map database covering 44 countries, multiple sensors to ensure more accurate positioning, a traffic message channel receiver to avoid traffic jams and a hands-free telephone system. It also plays CD, DVD, iPod, iPhone and USB devices, with on-screen controls.

Prices start at £15,995 for the 1.4 i-VTEC.

Hyundai's i40 on the way

HYUNDAI has revealed the first pictures of the new i40, ahead of its world premiere at the 2011 Geneva Motor Show.

The debut of i40 comes as Hyundai launches its new brand slogan 'New Thinking. New Possibilities.' The i40 reflects the spirit of change at Hyundai, and represents the company's bold new concept of 'modern premium' – the philosophy that premium quality and characteristics should be accessible to everyone.

The i40 is the company's first D-segment vehicle to be developed specifically for the European market, with a package of powertrains, equipment and technology tailored for European tastes. It will be shown in Geneva in estate form, and this will be the first i40 bodystyle to be introduced to Europe, with a saloon to follow later this year. The i40's 1.7-litre diesel engine, codenamed 'Ull', will emit from just 113g/km of CO2 emissions – a best-in-class figure that also demonstrates the advances the company is making towards global leadership in eco-technology.

Young drivers need safest cars (plus gender-based insurance policies)

CHOOSING an old car can put young drivers at risk, says RoadSafe. Younger motorists need the safest modern cars they can afford.

RoadSafe director Adrian Walsh says: "When it comes to buying a car for a new, young driver, it is a bad idea to put them in a cheap old banger.

"Older vehicles tend to cost less to insure but this benefit is diminished in the event of a crash, as they lack the safety systems found in newer models."

Age should not dictate which motorists have access to the safest cars, but RoadSafe is putting its focus on younger drivers as they continue to be involved in the highest proportion of collisions.

In 2009, drivers aged 17 to 24 made up 12 per cent of licence holders but 26 per cent of crashes involved at least one driver in this age group. They were also over-represented in the number of road deaths, making up 25 per cent of the 564 fatalities.

Newer cars don't just have better crash protection. They also have systems that help avoid collisions.

ESC, for example, helps a driver maintain control in an emergency. The system uses sensors to detect when a car starts to skid off its planned course and automatically reduces the throttle and applies the brakes to individual wheels to regain stability and prevent or minimise the skid.

This isn't to say that older cars are dangerous. Many secondhand cars have good safety systems. Buyers should check a car's Euro-NCAP rating and ask about the safety features fitted before making a purchase.

For tips on choosing a safe new or used car go to www.roadSAFEforparents.com.

The RoadSafe for Parents campaign began this month, with the support of celebrities including Phillip Schofield and Fearnie Cotton. It aims to show parents and guardians how they can improve the safety of young drivers.

Meanwhile, a leading insurance broker has described impending European legislation to ban insurers from using gender to rate premiums as "ridiculous".

Two European Court of Justice judges could ban gender discrimination in pricing insurance on March 1, leading to huge hikes in premiums, particularly for women.

Gerry Bucke, general manager at Adrian Flux Insurance Services, said the new rules would not significantly benefit male drivers, but could see young women paying up to £1,000 a year more.

"If people think that insurance companies will bring premiums for male drivers down to meet those for female drivers in the middle they are likely to be disappointed," he added.

"Despite the hefty increases in premiums we are seeing, there is no profit in the UK car insurance market, and insurers are unlikely to reduce premiums for young men in the long run."

Last year, analysts Tower Watson said that the UK motor insurance market would not be profitable until 2015 at the earliest, partly because of an estimated 30,000 annual fraudulent claims.

Mr Bucke is backed up by the Association of British Insurers (ABI), which says that if the initial decision is upheld it would be "extremely detrimental to UK consumers".

A 2004 EU directive allowing insurers to use gender to rate premiums if they were backed by statistical evidence was successfully challenged last year, leading to next month's crucial appeal.

Mr Bucke revealed that some insurers had already asked for the question of gender to be removed from the quotation process in anticipation of the ruling.

"It's ridiculous," he said. "Insurance is a discriminatory business where people pay the appropriate premium based on the risk of claims they represent."

"It's a fact that, for a variety of reasons, male drivers cost insurance companies more than women, just as younger drivers represent a greater risk, or those with a string of motoring offences or a bad claims record."

THE MERCEDES-BENZ C-CLASS COUPÉ: Aiming at a new market.

Mercedes-Benz joy for C-Class Coupé

WHAT more dynamic way to celebrate the invention of the automobile? The expressive C-Class Coupé sees Mercedes-Benz, now in its 125th year, entering a new market segment and for the first time offering a compact, classic coupé.

This youthful, sporty two-door car will be unveiled at the Geneva Motor Show in early March and making its way to customers from June.

The new model deploys the progressive technology featured on the soon-to-be-launched new generation of the C-Class to deliver an impressive coupé format that combines fun at the wheel with exemplary efficiency. In terms of attitude, this debuting model is "tailored to a customer group aged 35 to 45 for whom professional success, love of life and a strong sense of responsibility are all important".

"By extending the C-Class portfolio, we are consciously targeting new customers," says Dr Joachim Schmidt, head of sales and marketing. "The new model is youthful, stylish and dynamic. What we are offering is an exceptionally sporty way to enter the world of the Mercedes-Benz coupé."

There is a choice of three petrol engines and two diesel powerplants to power the C-Class Coupé. All are equipped with direct injection and the Eco start/stop function as standard.

All the engine variants are classed as BlueEfficiency units, showing that they are particularly efficient and environmentally friendly in their use of fuel.

The top engine variant is the V6 petrol engine in the C 350 BlueEfficiency featuring the efficient BlueDirect method of injection. It delivers 306bhp and 370Nm. Average fuel use is 41.5mpg.

The most economical coupé model is the C 220 CDI BlueEfficiency with manual six-speed transmission and the standard Eco start/stop function. It has an average diesel consumption of 64.2mpg.

LOOKER: The new Kia Rio.

Kia to show off new Rio in Geneva

KIA Motors has revealed the first photos of the next generation Rio, to be unveiled at Geneva Motorshow alongside the all new Picanto.

The Rio is the latest car to be revealed by Kia, boasting a bold and distinctive personality, bringing the newcomer in line with the rest of Kia's striking design-led passenger car range.

The Rio goes on sale in the UK in September as a 5-door version and a 3-door will be available from early 2012. Pricing will be announced nearer the on-sale date.

New Rio has its own interpretation of Kia's signature grille, integrated with the headlamps to give a new twist on the Kia family look. In profile, the body-to-glass ratio and its strong wedge form give new Rio a dynamic stance.

Kia's B-segment newcomer will be offered with an extensive range of fuel-efficient and low-CO2 petrol and diesel engines, depending on market – including a 1.1-litre diesel unit generating 69bhp, with CO2 emissions from as low as 85g/km. An all-new, high-performance 1.2-litre Turbo Gasoline Direct Injection (GDI) will also be available from 2012.

FROM THE REAR: The C-Class Coupé has a choice of three petrol and two diesel powerplants.

WEEKLY NEWS Classifieds

Feeling recognised, rewarded, respected and valued? You will.

Napp is a successful UK pharmaceutical company with a strong track record in providing innovative treatments that make a positive difference to patients' lives. Our collaborative approach to business has made us a great place to work, and for the past 4 years we have appeared in the Sunday Times Top 100 Best Companies to Work For in the UK. We are looking for high-performing administrators to join our Sales and Marketing Departments and play a vital part in our continuing success. Our administrator roles will provide you with a variety of individual responsibilities, the chance to develop and the opportunity to become involved in a diverse range of projects.

Marketing Administrator (Ref: DL1)

Brand Team Administrator, Part time (Ref: DL2)
12 Month Contract (21 hours per week)

Business Intelligence Administrator (Ref: DL3)
8 Month Contract

In all three of our Marketing roles you will have total ownership over administrative tasks and manage work with ever changing priorities. This will include defining and implementing administrative processes that support the specialist teams. You'll also be fully responsible for organising and coordinating meetings, managing diaries and ensuring that appropriate agreements and contracts are in place.

More than that, you will be the first point of contact for enquiries and use your expertise to maintain and monitor the team budget spreadsheet.

Other key activities will include planning and arranging logistical support and using our Oracle purchase system to raise, monitor and process purchase orders.

In addition, you will facilitate and support the approval of documentation through our internal approval system. In the case of the Brand Team Administrator role, you will also be responsible for the stock management of materials – proactively managing stock levels and highlighting issues in a timely manner.

Sales Directorate Administrator (Ref: DL4)

You will support the directorate with audits and mailings, printing and distributing associated documentation, as well as being responsible for coordinating meetings and managing diaries. You will also manage incoming post and urgent calls for the Heads of departments, order stationery and draft correspondence.

All roles require high organisation skills, pro-activity and drive to provide an efficient administration service. Exceptional interpersonal and communication skills are essential along with a solid knowledge of Microsoft Office.

In return, we offer a competitive salary, contributory pension scheme, non-contractual bonus and Private Medical Care. We also have a sports and social club, subsidised restaurant and parking. If you are interested in any of these opportunities please send in your CV and covering letter, stating the appropriate reference, along with your current salary and benefits package, to vacancies@napp.co.uk

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.

- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.

- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.

- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.

- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

DAVE Cullum must have felt like Dick Turpin after watching his side steal a point in the closing stages of Waterbeach's home clash against West Wrattling.

The visitors led 2-0 at the interval thanks to Tom Day's penalty and a goal from Danny Hill, who had been upended in the box for the earlier spot-kick.

Kevin Hills pulled one back for Littleport with a far-post header, but Paul Jenkins restored West Wrattling's two-goal cushion with 15 minutes remaining.

However, despite being outplayed for much of the contest, substitutes Liam Hart and Michael Emms netted in the last few minutes to snatch a 3-3 draw.

"We were really lucky," said Littleport boss Cullum. "One of the people that watches the team every week said I should be in court on Monday as it was daylight robbery.

"West Wrattling were the much better team on the day. In our defence, we never stopped trying, but our passing was awful."

Wrattling manager Craig Fleming said: "We lost concentration at the end as we thought it was all over."

"We gave the ball away in bad areas for their goals, but we have taken eight points from our last five games."

The draw moves them into a lower mid-table position.

Hundon Hawks 11 Stukeley Meadows 0

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12D

ANDERS Pilley took his season's total to 35 as Hundon Hawks destroyed Stukeley Meadows.

He scored five times – netting a hat-trick in the second half – as Hawks continued their impressive results sequence with some good football straight from the kick off.

They were 5-0 ahead at half time and cruised through the second half with the other goals coming from Milo Holmes and Jack Krempel – two apiece – and one each from Harry Sargent and Branham Ince.

ROVERS were in less worse shape than their opponents for the game at the start of the half-term break.

Although the visitors turned up with a barebones XI, Priory had been reduced to only nine players with the result that Rovers were able to ease into a three-goal lead at the break thanks to goals from Rhys Shulver, Dera Nkem-Paul and Will Bailey

However, the visitors made the mistake of thinking the game was all over, and although they restored their three-goal lead when Bailey made it 4-1, Priory battled back.

They ensured a nervy finale when they converted a late penalty but were unable to grab a point their superior work-rate deserved.

Castle Camps 6 Lakenheath 0 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12A

OWEN Thompson struck twice in five minutes to give Castle Camps the perfect start in a match where they never relinquished control.

They stormed into a 5-0 lead at the break, with Finlay Fletcher, Charlie Ellam and Morgan Jones finishing well after confident build-ups.

Such was Camps' dominance, keeper Sean Gage and his second-half replacement James Sams never had a chance to save, although despite their impressive play, the home side could only muster one more goal from James Austin.

Soham United 6 West Wrattling 2 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B

AFTER working hrd to create some early chances, West Wrattling were rocked by a three-goal burst midway through the first half.

Earle Lambert pulled a goal back before the interval, but a fourth goal on the counter-attack was followed by a second goal for Wrattling as Rory Jebb fired the rebound from Lambert's overhead kick low into the corner of the net.

However, tiredness eventually led to Soham adding two further goals for a somewhat flattering scoreline.

Fish nets Haverhill progress in play-off thriller

ANDY Fish guided Haverhill into the third round of the prestigious Mail on Sunday competition after a nerve-wracking clash against Bury St Edmunds at Coupals Road. The match went to a thrilling play-off after the tie ended 2½ - 2½, the players having to negotiate a very wet course where, although the greens were in good condition, cloying mud made play tricky. Fish was paired to play Andy Ball, who beat him by one hole in the singles match which drew Bury level. On the first play-off hole, the visiting player managed to hole a very tricky second putt from across the tiered green to save par and keep the match alive.

That was nothing compared with the drama on the 144-yard, par-three second, where Fish's tee shot hit the green three inches in front of the pin, climbed the flagstick at pace, came back down and lipped out to 12 ft – from where the Haverhill player two-putted.

That allowed Ball to halve the hole, but on the third he missed the green with his approach shot, which gave Fish the advantage.

His approach shot stopped within 15ft of the pin and he two-putted to secure victory.

Details (Haverhill team first): Eamonn Bareham bt Andy Grogan 4&2, Dennis Harkness lost Graham Smith 4&3, Bob Spittle bt Gareth Davies 3&2, Derek Thomas halved with Malcolm Parkinson, Fish lost Ball by 1 hole.

■ Geraldine Wheatley took a seven wood off the tee and aced the par-three, 110-yard eighth on the way to securing second place in the Ladies' February Stableford.

It helped her score 28pts, three shy of in-form winner Mary Sail, who had 31pts. Jacqueline Condon was third with 27pts.

■ Ed Baker shot the lowest gross round and to win the Juniors' Medal competition with an impressive 79-10-69, a score which has seen his handicap reduced by a shot. Liam Merritt was second with 79-10-69 and James Higham third after carding 101-25-76

Cup, semi-final

We're up for some cups: Betts

PETER Betts has his sights firmly set on silverware after seeing his Haverhill Rovers side book their place in the Cambs Invitation Cup final with victory over March Town United.

The Rovers boss is keen to see his team, currently flying high in the Ridgeons League, Premier Division, go on and lift the trophy and make the club more attractive to potential backers.

"There have been a lot of fresh beginnings at the club this year, especially moving to the new ground," he said.

"We're looking to attract more support and backing for the club. Sponsors like successful clubs, so if we finish the season with a trophy it's going to help us to get some backing over the summer."

Goals from Dalton O'Brien and Stuart Wardley secured Rovers' win over March on Tuesday night, although the victory was more comfortable than the scoreline suggests.

Rovers hit the woodwork four times and controlled the game from start to finish. O'Brien opened the scoring in the 28th minute with Wardley doubling the lead in the 57th minute from the penalty spot after Owen Paynter had been fouled.

"We're delighted with the result," said Betts. "I couldn't have asked for a better performance. We dominated the game and set our standards high."

Rovers, whose league game at Stanway Rovers last weekend was postponed because of a waterlogged pitch, resume their Premier Division campaign at Kirkley & Pakefield on Saturday.
